Dixon School Buildings Hit by Gamber

STATE FIRE MARSHAL HIT CONDITIONS

Says It's Time Dixon People Awoke to Responsibility

State Fire Marshal John G. Gamber of Springfield, who is in the city speaking before the schools and the civic clubs, assailed the Dixon schools in talks before the Dixon Kiwanis club at noon today and the Goro club last evening. "In the short time I have been in Dixon I have observed conditions in your schools that you would not begin to tolerate in your businesses," was his first attack on the condition of the schools. "Secondly--there are 95 per cent of the schools of the country that are unsafe and in this connection, let me state to you that Dixon has its percentage."

"It is time for the business men in Dixon to awake from their slumber at the desk. It is time for the civic clubs, organizations such as this Kiwanis club, to awake and observe conditions in your schools. The office of the state fire marshal of Illinois is conducting a survey which is state wide and in the rural as well as the city schools. By this special survey the directors of the schools will be responsible for the condition of the buildings. We are then going to tell the people where in the fault lies and after that, you who have children in the schools, you who are members of civic clubs, will be responsible for the conditions and not the state fire marshal's office or the county superintendent of schools. It is time that the citizens of Dixon awake and take an interest in the schools and see that the little children are protected and that they may leave a school building in safety in case of fire."

Against Wide Stairs. "I have observed wide stairs and hall ways in the Dixon schools. This is the old time method of school construction. I would prefer a narrow hall and stairs any time for the safe release of children from a school, to the wide stairs and halls of the age ago."

Superintendent I. B. Potter who was present at the meeting, asked the state fire marshal to explain more clearly. Mr. Gamber answered that in one school he had observed a plasterboard wall covering in the hall. This he declared, in his estimation, was a dangerous method of interior construction. Superintendent Potter then stated to the club that in every case where a deputy state fire marshal has recommended a change to be made in the school buildings of the city that his recommendation has been strictly complied with, the board of education having never defied the deputies of the state fire marshal's orders.

On Safety Program.

The state fire marshal is this afternoon completing a 24 hour lecture tour in Dixon, appearing before all of the schools in the city and many civic organizations in connection with the Safety Week movement sponsored by the Chicago Motor club. His talk before the Kiwanis club was on the subject, "Fire Prevention." Bert J. Wain of the Chicago Motor club gave a short talk on "Accident Prevention."

Attorney Robert Bracken of Polo, the speaker of the regular program, gave a very interesting talk which was optimistic and thoroughly enjoyed by every one who was privileged to hear him.

"BOOTLEG FARM" CASE WILL BE TRIED IN NOV.

Fulton Liquor Trial is Set for Hearing in U.S. Court

When the next term of federal court convenes on November 3, in Freeport, it is expected that the case which has been on the docket since the spring term and which is known as the "Bootleg Farm" case will be threshed out in court and promises to be one of the hardest fought cases of its kind in this jurisdiction. Nearly a year ago government officials and authorities of Whiteside county swooped down on the farm of James Riley and confiscated 5,217 cases of "rubbing alcohol" and which it was said by the officers was being distilled and used in the manufacture of "moonshine."

E. W. Voelgel, of Clinton, Iowa, and his son, Lyman Voelgel, were taken into custody as the ostensible leaders of the ring, which authorities claim, had branches in many of the larger cities for its output.

A Chicago concern was also included in the list of defendants on a charge of furnishing labels and stamps.

Riley served a six months' sentence in the Whiteside county jail, and when released was taken into custody by federal officers and is now under bonds for the November term of court.

Assistant District Attorney Ward, caused an attachment to be served on the confiscated alcohol and made use of an ancient law, with a view of confiscating the stuff, which has a market value of over $20,000 and which can when secured by the government be resold and used by the postal department for its mail trucks.

Says Our Material and Spiritual Progress Has Been Good

Washington, Oct. 27--(AP)--President Coolidge today proclaimed Thursday, Nov. 26, as Thanksgiving Day, when gratitude should be expressed for "many and great blessings" which have come to the people during the last year.

The nation has been brought with safety and honor through another twelve months, the proclamation said, at peace at home and abroad, with the public health good, with harvests and industries productive and labor well rewarded.

The proclamation follows: BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A proclamation. "The season approaches when, in accordance with a long established and respected custom a day is set apart to give thanks to Almighty God for the manifold blessings which His gracious and benevolent providence has bestowed upon us as a nation and as individuals."

"We have been brought with safety and honor through another year and, through the generosity of nature, we have been blessed with resources whose potentiality in wealth is almost incalculable; we are at peace at home and abroad; the public health is good; we have been undisturbed by pestilence or great catastrophe; our harvests and our industries have been rich in productivity; our commerce spreads over the whole world, and labor has been well rewarded for its remunerative service."

Make Moral Progress.

"As we have grown and prospered in material things, so also should we progress in moral and spiritual things. We are a God-fearing people who should set ourselves against evil and strive for righteousness in living, and observing the golden rule we should from our abundance help and serve less fortunate people. We should bow in gratitude to God for his many favors."

"Now, therefore, I Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November, next, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their work, and in their homes or in their accustomed places of worship devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received, and to seek his guidance that they may deserve a continuance of his favor."

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. #### Dixon Cement Plant Has Fine Safety Record

It might be of interest to know at this time when the entire community of Dixon is specializing on safety work, methods and accident prevention that in June of this year the cement industries of the United States and Canada put on a campaign for a no accident month in the cement industries. The Dixon plant of the Sanitary Cement Company waged a vigorous campaign of safety meetings, slogans and safety education among its employees and was successful in that no accidents were recorded for the month.

Realizing the value to employees and management alike of this concentrated effort they have extended their campaign and aside from three accidents in July have been successful in eliminating accidents at the Dixon plant for a consecutive period of ninety-nine days today. Accidents are preventable and if the employees of industrial plants are educated to the dangers of their industries, the loss of time and suffering can be reduced to a minimum. It might be well for each industrial worker at this time to study his particular surroundings with a view to accident prevention.

PAINLEVE CABINET QUILTS; FINANCIAL SITUATION REASON

Decision to Quit Was Reached Unanimously This Morning

Paris, Oct. 27--(AP)--Premier Painleve's cabinet resigned today. M. Painleve called on President Doumergue shortly after 2 p. m. and presented the collective resignation of the ministers.

The premier informed the president that the cabinet could not continue its work of restoring the French finances without being assured of a favorable majority in parliament.

The decision of the ministers to resign was unanimous. It was caused by the attitude taken by the radical and socialist parties at their recent congress in Nice, where the principle of a tax levy on capital was adopted.

The Painleve ministry was formed April 16 of this year to succeed that of Edouard Herriot, which also went down through the refusal of parliament to accept its financial policy.

Like its predecessor, the cabinet which swept down today, depended for its parliamentary majority largely on the parties of the left including the radicals and radical socialists. Joseph Caillaux, Painleve's minister of finance and one of the outstanding personalities of the government, has steadfastly resisted the left in its desire to resort to a levy on capital as a means of lifting France out of its financial difficulties.

Paris dispatches for the last few days have made it plain that the premier and foreign minister Briand were not in sympathy with M. Caillaux's plans, the details of which have been kept largely in the dark during their consideration by the cabinet.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED AT BIG DINNER LAST EVE.

Drive for $15,000 for Institution to Continue This Week

The opening dinner of the Y. M. C. A. campaign to raise $15,000 in a week's time was launched successfully. About one hundred men and young men reported for definite work on the various teams, of which there are twenty in number. The program started with the singing of "America," led by Hal Hunt and Divine Blessing was invoked by Rev. B. F. Cleaver. The Ladies' Auxiliary, who will have charge of the meals through out the gatherings of the campaign, furnished a very bountiful dinner. Songs were interspersed while the meal was going on and a jolly good time was enjoyed and especially so when a duet by Messers Moyer and Kennedy was rendered very effectively.

I. B. Potter, the President of the Association, called the meeting to order for actual business. He spoke of the tremendous asset the Young Men's Christian Association is to a city and showed very clearly that it was an organization, rendering a daily service to the community. "The Young Men's Christian Association is what we determine to make it," Mr. Potter then introduced Rev. Albert W. Carlson, a new citizen of Dixon. He showed himself to be a loyal friend of the Young Men's Christian Association and wished the campaign organization the success that it deserves. He already has responded to the call of the "Y" and has entered upon its actual program.

The President of the Association then introduced Henry Hey, who had been selected by the board of directors as chairman of this campaign. Mr. Hey spoke of the work of the association and complimented the splendid attendance and support that the business and professional men of Dixon were giving the "Y". He called attention to the fact that President Coolidge realizes the great worth of the Y. M. C. A. as shown by his recent address in Washington.

Campaign Director Spoke.

The out-of-town speaker, for some reason was not present, and Mr. Hey then introduced M. S. Safford, the Campaign Director. Mr. Safford, who has been an Association member for a great many years, spoke well of the work of the "Y" in this city. The question has often been asked him if the "Y" is going to be self-sustaining. The answer has to be "no" as there are no cities in the United States who do not depend on the actual subscriptions from the loyal citizens of the city to carry on its work. He mentioned the fact that it was quite evident that the membership receipts and the dormitory rentals would not begin to meet the expenses. It is absolutely necessary, wherever a Y. M. C. A., that its citizens realize that it is necessary to back it with substantial subscriptions if a great work is to be promoted. Many of the people who have contributed to the "Y" in years back have gladly doubled or tripled their subscriptions, knowing that the expenses of the "Y" have increased as in all lines of business. To successfully maintain a Y. M. C. A. in this city means ample support by those who are able and loyal support by the great proportion of its citizens.

Dixon is a city of which one can be proud; the person who invests in the "Y" is putting his or her money in a character-building institution. Mr. Safford then outlined the program of activity in securing the financial assistance that the "Y" needs. The names of prospect givers were placed on card boards and hung on the wall. At the given signal the workers were given an opportunity of choosing a list of whom they would see. The selection of these was done carefully and the Majors, Captains and Workers with the Executive Committee are planning on making their first report tonight at 8:30 p. m. when the second dinner will be served. These occasions have proved pleasant as well as profitable and it is expected that all hands will be present tonight in order to reach our proportionate goal at this stage in the campaign. $2500 is needed for the report of the first day's work.

Clock Shows Progress.

The Campaign Clock will be placed on the Dixon National Bank Building where it can be easily seen. Each day it will show how far it has progressed toward its goal. If you want to see the clock a success give it a helping hand. The goal is $15,000.

"CUT-OFF" CASE IS ARGUED FOR SUPREME COURT

State Seeks to Stop Illinois Central Building Line

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 27--(AP)--Thirty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize the Edgewood cut-off, by which the Illinois Central Railroad would save 164 miles in transporting freight north and south through Illinois and Kentucky, was contested in argument by lawyers before the supreme court here today.

David S. Lansden of Cairo opened the attack on the federal commission's action and was prepared to consume his share of six hours in oral argument. Against this position and supporting the validity of the cut off was R. V. Fletcher of Chicago, general counsel of the Illinois Central.

Contending that the commerce commission's act is also a blow at the state's rights and that the state of Illinois will lose a million dollars annually if the new cut off is put into operation, the Attorney General also took a part in the discussion, through his Chicago assistant, Harry E. Kelly.

Mr. Lansden declared that construction of the cut-off would violate the Illinois law and the charter granted the railroad by Illinois. He added that the Southern Illinois & Kentucky Railroad, formed to build the line, is "a mere creature" of the Illinois Central, and that the construction is in reality "a parallel and competing line" and as such is unlawful.

"Orders of the Illinois Commerce Commission," he said, "cannot be used to authorize Illinois laws."

Answering Lansden and Kelly, the corporation lawyer denied that the building of the cut-off would violate either an Illinois law or the railroad's charter. The cut-off would run from Edgewood through Metropolis to Fulton, Ky.

At least twenty persons were killed outright or died before a relief train could reach the scene and possibly twice that number were injured.

The train, traveling between fifty and sixty miles an hour, apparently sprang the track about 200 feet from a forty foot trestle. The engine cleared the trestle, as did the first baggage coach. The engine did not leave the track. Three baggage coaches and nine day coaches and Pullmans made up the train.

Coaches Down Bank.

Except the last Pullman the coaches rolled down the forty foot embankment. Three coaches were a tangled mass of wreckage. One of them dived head long into the clay bank by the side of the track and the others rolled and tumbled as they struck the bottom, piling the occupants into the tops and ends of the cars.

Few of the passengers sleeping in last three Pullmans suffered serious injury and it was these who directed rescue and first-aid work before relief trains arrived.

COMMUNITY SAFETY WEEK PROGRAM IS MEETING SUCCESS

Children are Being Educated Against all Mishap Hazards

Community Safety Week program is being carried out to the letter. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Family Theater hundreds of school children from both public and parochial schools saw a very instructive and interesting picture "Legion of Safety." This picture showed the dangers that must be avoided to prevent accidents on public highway and as the house was filled to capacity, this message of prevention should be well spread among the children.

Bert Brown, Representative of the Chicago Motor Club, preceding the picture gave a short talk to the children, explaining the good work that is being done throughout the state through the cooperation of the school children with the city officials.

Last evening at 6:30 at the meeting of the Gyro Club held at the Episcopal church, State Fire Marshal John H. B. Whitlock of Chicago Motor Club, and Frank J. Gorman of the local club were invited guests at the banquet. Messrs Brown and Gorman gave very interesting talks on safety, accident and fire prevention and told of the many hazards that arise daily on the street, and in the home.

Public Hap Wanted

Particular stress has been put upon this Safety Week with the hope that the public in general will cooperate along these lines for the balance of the year and today the Safety Week Committee further carried out the program by calling on all the schools in Dixon and instructing the children now to use every precaution while going to and from school and explained to them the many accidents that occur, through carelessness, while at play. The smaller children along these lines and each school will be furnished a victoria record on accident prevention to be used as a permanent fixture.

This program was continued throughout today and will be tomorrow until every school has been visited.

Come in next time you are in Dixon and I will cheerfully tell you of the high-class insurance company's I represent. Do not delay. Your barn, your house, your auto may burn with in the next 24 hours. Come before it is too late. Hal Bardwell, 119 East First St., Dixon, Ill.

WAR CLOUDS BREAK AWAY AS BULGARIA AND GREECE AGREE

Friendly Offices of Rumania Bring End to Hostilities

ATHENS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Greek government today ordered the prompt evacuation of Bulgarian territory by its forces. The movement to withdraw the Greek frontier guards to their former posts has been begun.

BULLETIN

Paris, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Greece's representative, M. Carapanos announced at the opening of today's meeting of the League of Nations council that through the friendly mediation of Rumania a direct agreement has been reached between Greece and Bulgaria for evacuation of their respective territories.

BULLETIN

Paris, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A naval demonstration before Athens is a possible League of Nations move should the government of Premier Pangalos decline to bow to the League council's decision that it must cease all hostilities and remove all Greek forces from Bulgarian soil.

The council believes that the Greek government will accept the decision, but it was learned in authoritative circles today that the advisability of a naval blockade has already been discussed privately by the council.

Although M. Carapanos, the Greek minister, told the council today that both Greece and Bulgaria had reached a direct accord, through the good offices of Rumania, to suspend hostilities and retire behind their frontiers, the Bulgarian representatives declared they had no confirmation of this report.

Entente Held Impossible

Indeed M. Morloff, speaking for the Sofia government, informed the council that a direct entente with Greece was utterly impossible, because of Greece's persistent refusal to listen to Bulgaria's repeated offers to appoint a joint commission to inquire into the border trouble.

M. Morloff said the latest dispatch from Sofia showed that up to yesterday, the Bulgarian losses were 48 killed or wounded. Of these 26 were soldiers and 22 civilians, men and women. There was the probability of other unknown victims.

He demanded that, independently of any penalties which the council might apply to Greece for her "grave blow at international peace and violation of her League obligations," complete reparations should be accorded Bulgaria for the damages to persons and property and that prisoners should be released immediately.

Each Blames Other.

Both the Greek and Bulgarian spokesmen charged responsibility for the conflict rested on the shoulders of the other country and Bulgaria, like Greece, demanded reparation.

The council adjourned until eleven o'clock tomorrow morning to await advice whether the Athens and Sofia governments had ordered mutual evacuation within the 24 hours laid down by the council's edict of last evening.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.
Breakfast—
Apples, cereal, thin cream, waffles, syrup, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—
Creamed oyster plant on toast, stuffed prune salad, graham bread and butter, sponge cake, milk, tea.
Dinner—
Broiled pork chops, baked sweet potatoes, apple sauce, pepper-celery-nut salad, bran rolls, raisin puffs, milk, coffee.

This dinner menu must be changed in many instances if wanted for children under ten years of age. Lamb chops should be substituted for pork, the salad should be reduced to plain lettuce and a piece of sponge cake or crisp cookie be served with the apple sauce for dessert.
Creamed Oyster Plant on Toast.
One bunch salsify or oyster plant, 2 tablespoons butter, 1½ tablespoons flour, 1½ cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, triangles of toast.
Wash and scrape oyster plant and drop into water containing 1 tablespoon vinegar. This prevents the roots from discoloring. Cut in half-inch slices or dice and drain. Put in to sauce pan, add boiling water to cover and cook until tender. Add salt after cooking for 30 minutes. Drain and add to sauce made by melting butter and stirring in flour. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper and celery pepper and cook five minutes and after sauce begins to boil. Pour over hot buttered toast and garnish with parsley to serve.

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

What is the worst thing is the world? I asked a young woman the other day.

Without any hesitation she replied, "Being bored."

It sounded flippant.

But on analysis one finds solid ground for this contention.

What is the bottom cause of all this divorcing and home destroying that is going on in this country? Poverty? Yes, that is an important cause. Indolence? Yes. But in countless thousands of cases—probably the great majority of cases—the real reason is that either or both husband and wife become bored with the other.

Just what constitutes a bore? The answer is difficult. We all know a bore when we see one. But to give specifications is all but impossible.

You'd naturally think that a well-informed person would be least likely to be a bore. Yet the contrary is frequently the case.

A friend of mine was making up a list of guests to invite to a dinner party. Someone suggested the name of an man whom we all knew.

"Not that bore," she replied.

"Bore?" I should think he would be interesting. "He is a walking encyclopedia," pronounced the prospective hostess with a "that's that" finality.

So it seems that it is not well to know too much.

On the other hand what would be more boring than a dinner companion who knows nothing about anything?

My observation is this: A good listener is never by any chance called a bore.

Hence listen well and look interested. You'll be bored, of course, but you'll never be a bore.

FIGHTING WINDMILLS.

The report of Mayor Dever's committee of 200 on the Chicago fight to have Illinois reapportioned to give Chicago a strangle hold on the legislature does not suit the Chicago Tribune. It says that part of the committee wants to compromise. Then the Tribune seems to imagine that Chicago will be "in bad" if down-state continues to have a majority in the legislature, as now, and sees this result if the attempt of John B. Ferguson to get "relief" from the Illinois supreme court should fail. But it tells Chicagoans that their only way out then will be "to seize the veto power by seeing to it that the governor is always a Chicagoan." Then this rosy picture: "At the rate Chicago is now growing it will be a matter of only a few years before Chicago will be able to fill the governor's chair with whatever candidate it wishes; that is not a good thing for the state, but it may be necessary for the city."

Wonder what the legislature as now constituted has done to Chicago to give the Tribune this feeling of despair? Then, as to the threat of forcing continued Chicago governorship on the rest of the state, what hope does the Tribune see in that? The state is getting pretty well accustomed to having governors who hail from Chicago, and some of them almost all of them, have been pretty good governors. There are a lot of big men in Chicago who see justice in downstate opposition to domination of the state by the big city, men who believe Chicago sentiment would better be tintured with down-state sentiment before it is enacted into law, and that this would be better for Chicago as well as better for the whole state. Even when Chicago grows in a few years to having a majority of the voters in the whole state, a may be difficult for the Tribune to line Chicago up for just the Chicagoan for governor that the Tribune may want. There's many a slip-up in the Tribune's political program even in these days when down-state people are proud to see Chicago grow in both population and prosperity. These slips might become more numerous were down-state people definitely arraigned against Chicago, as the Tribune threat seeks to arraign them. Just now the Tribune is fighting windmills.

MINISTERS.

Presbyterian ministers are to get retiring allowances, after they reach the age of 65, ranging from $600 to $2000 a year. Which is a lot better than nothing.

But if the Protestant churches are to continue their spiritual leadership, they must solve their business problem, also. That problem is to have only as many churches and ministers as are required to serve the people, and to support those churches adequately.

The movement for church unions, which is timidly beginning, is based in part on the tolerance of the age. It has become absurd for like-thinking persons to maintain separate churches whose ground of difference long since ceased to exist. But it is based even more imperatively on business grounds.

Preachers must eat, like other people. If a village can support one minister, or starve five, sooner or later "economic determinism" is going to teach that village toleration.

SCHOOLS.

California has one of the most expensive school systems in the union.

And yet even that tremendous cost is much less than what the people of the state pay for tobacco. The cost, last year, was for tobacco $86,932,711, and for schools $75,576,031. That was $21.62 per capita for tobacco, and only $18.80 for schools. For all luxuries combined, the people spent over a hundred dollars apiece.

Eighteen dollars for schools is a lot. But it is not enough for tobacco, scarcely enough for chewing gum, and nowhere near enough for moving pictures, to say nothing of automobiles or radio.

Add the chewing gum bills of the nation to the present cost of schools and it would mean a good schoolhouse and a well-paid teacher for every child in the land.

Galena postoffice and customs house employees, who receive small pay, recently appealed for some protection from recurring floods and unusually wet weather up there. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who may not be such a tightwad after all as he is sometimes painted, recommended that the government should furnish them with rubber boots, coats and hats as "necessary equipment," not as "wearing apparel," which latter employees must pay for themselves. Secretary Mellon made this recommendation to Comptroller of the Currency McCarl. McCarl overruled Mellon, and now Galena government employees see no relief from their wet experiences.

The Chicago & NorthWestern has won an increase of suburban rates in Illinois from the interstate commerce commission. But the increase must not bring any suburban rate above 2 cents a mile. But even this pushes up the expense to the commuter who lives say five miles out to 20 cents a day, while he has been paying much less. That's penalty for living in a big city.

The Secretary of the Navy received a post card from a farmer saying: "My youngest son has enlisted in the Navy. I can't get him out. Won't you help me? He is a good boy and I was raising him for my own use."—Our Navy.

TOM SIMS SAYS

When a man says he'll never marry it is just because he doesn't know what kind of girls there are in the world.

Be quiet. Then you will know what others think of you. And they won't know what you think of them.

Don't tell all you know. It is discouraging to learn how little it really is.

Sometimes one person doesn't like another because they are alike, which is embarrassing to both.

The man who doesn't find fault with you is your worst enemy.

Being mistaken now and then isn't half as big a mistake as never being mistaken.

The wind is blowing in the trees, it's time to pull the ancient wheeze of saying farewell to beedeecia.

It's a wise man who knows he isn't.

Anita Whitney, California social worker and philanthropist, enrolled herself for a time as a member of the short-lived Communist Workers' Party.

She attended one organization meeting, where her only activity was to report a resolution favoring the use of the ballot rather than of illegal methods to redress wrongs. The radicals at the meeting voted the resolution down on the plea that political methods were impotent.

Another branch of the organization is claimed to have passed a resolution endorsing the Third Internationale, and that Internationale, in Moscow, is understood to have passed resolutions which, if done in America, would be illegal here.

So, under the "criminal syndicalism" law of California, Miss Whitney was convicted of membership in an illegal organization and sentenced to from one to 14 years in the penitentiary. A lot of freckled "bums" were sentenced about the same time, and are now serving time in prison.

Miss Whitney, having wealth and influence, carried her case from court to court, but now, by the refusal of the supreme court to accept jurisdiction, her last resort is gone, and she, too, is to go to prison, for crimes which she did not commit nor advocate but which had been advocated by an organization related to another organization, which, in turn, had relations to an organization to which she belonged, but in which she had opposed those doctrines.

The party itself went out of existence a few days later, but anybody who once enrolled in it is a criminal, and several of them are in prison. Miss Whitney, as the only conspicuous one, may succeed in making the injustice of it also conspicuous.

Survivals of War Psychology

There are such laws in a number of states. They are survivals of war psychology. Under them, men who neither committed, incited nor believed in violence are imprisoned for the beliefs or acts of others.

Every one of these prisoners regards himself, rightly or wrongly, as a martyr, and is so regarded by his fellows.

The imprisonment does less than no good in discouraging the propaganda of vicious doctrines, and it does give revolutionists a "talking point" in their argument that democratic institutions do not protect free speech.

As a matter both of principle and of policy, they should all be repealed.

Little Chance For Dawes Victory

Doubtless nothing will be done at the next session of the Senate to carry out Vice President Dawes' plan for the reform of the Senate rules.

Senators do not want to reform them; still less to be driven to do so by a mere vice president. But the fact that Senator Underwood will introduce a resolution for them guarantees at least a hearing and a discussion. And that, in the long run, is enough.

Darkness does not have to be driven out by light. The mere presence of light negatives darkness. And the ways of Senate procedure are dark.

One discussion may not cure them. But it will make their permanent retention impossible.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO RUTH BURKE.

Almost before you finish this letter, dear Ruth, I will be with you. I'm afraid, however, I will not be able to stay as long as I would wish, for Paula Perier will be here in a little over a week and I have promised Sally that I would entertain her. Perhaps you will come back with me. You say you are perfectly well and I think a little change would do you good.

As I wrote you, Sally Atherton untangled that complicated skein of worry that Jack's impulsiveness and Maggie Stimpson's father got us into. Sally took Maggie home with her and although she has only been there a little over a week, you could hardly conceive how the girl has changed already.

I was a little dubious at the time over Sally's plan to take the girl into her home, but I know now that it was all right for both of them. It gives Sally something to do outside of her workaday life. She can mother that girl, and, of course, it is the making of Maggie Stimpson.

I do not know that I told you that Maggie passed from a little grub into a very pretty moth while Sally was in California.

Now that Sally has toned down the perfume and the lipstick and showed Maggie that an elaborate afternoon gown was not the thing to wear in an office at 9 o'clock in the morning, I am looking for great things from her.

I have a letter from mother. She and Karl are starting home the last of next week. She writes me that Karl is not going to marry Mary and I expect the whole Stokely connection was much disappointed. Mother says that Karl is looking and seems to be feeling much better than he has for a long time. She is going to live with him when she gets home and while it makes me quite unhappy in a way, it is perhaps the best thing all around for all of us.

You know, of course, that we have Jack's mother with us now, and it seems to me she gets worse and worse every day.

She has taken a notion that I am leaving the children too much in the care of Hannah with whom she is in a state of open warfare.

The other day Mrs. Prescott went to John privately and said she thought Jack Jr. was unkind to his little brother. John, instead of coming to me, made the mistake of going to the boy himself and accused him of unkindness.

Of course, you know that Mrs. Prescott is very jealous of Jack, Jr. Knowing that he has been adopted, she takes the stand that Sydney, our youngest child, should have had his father's name, etc., and that is the reason she is always trying to stir up trouble.

This last interference on her part was terrible. You know that little Jack worships Sydney and his heart was broken to be accused of being unkind to him in any way, especially as Mrs. Prescott was present and accused him of telling an untruth, and his father seemed to believe his grandmother instead of him.

Will our subscribers who get the Telegraph by mail look at the little yellow tag. If your paper is about to expire send us a check or P. O. order.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 8—JACK O' LANTERN'S FORTUNE

"Why, you do know a lot of things," said Jack O'Lantern admiringly.

"Whose fortune shall I tell now?" asked Mrs. Gipsy.

"Mine please," said Jack O'Lantern stepping up. "Please tell my fortune, Mrs. Gipsy. Here is a six pence the Crooked Man lent me."

"Did he only lend it to you?" said Mrs. Gipsy.

"No, he may keep it," called the Crooked Man. "It's crooked anyway."

"Well, I hope his fortune won't come out crooked," said Mrs. Gipsy.

"But I'll do the best I can to make it straight. Let me see your hand—your right one, Mister Jack O'Lantern."

Jack O'Lantern held out his hand, for in High Jinks Land, Jack O'Lantern was a real person, and had perfectly good arms and legs, even if the rest of him was hollow.

"Well, I declare!" said Mrs. Gipsy. "I see another cornfield! Just as I saw in the Scarce Crow's hand. Yes, sir! There's a cornfield!"

"I don't see any cornfield," said Jack O'Lantern, holding his hand up before his eyes and looking ever so hard.

"Well, it's there!" said Mrs. Gipsy. "It's in your fortune. I can see it. It is where you were born. At first you were just a little seed, and then you were a little sprout—the next thing that happened to you was that you became a fine green vine with big leaves, trailing along the ground among the cornstalks."

"Why, you do know a lot of things," said Jack O'Lantern admiringly. "What was I next, Mrs. Gipsy?"

"Next you were a little green hard knob no bigger than a cherry," said Mrs. Gipsy. "And after that you grew and grew until you were a fine big yellow pumpkin."

"Well, I declare!" thought the Scarce Crow. "I thought Jack O'Lantern looked familiar! He's the pumpkin that grew right at my feet in the cornfield. No wonder we took to each other right away, when he became a Jack O'Lantern."

"Have I any more fortune?" asked Jack O'Lantern.

"Yes," said Mrs. Gipsy. "I see a big knife."

"Oh, dear! That makes me nervous!" said Jack.

"It needn't," said Mrs. Gipsy. "The knife was your friend. It made a real person out of you. Just as I told Scarce Crow that clothes made the man, I must tell you that in your case, a knife made you. The only difference between a pumpkin and a Jack O'Lantern is a sharp knife."

"I'm certainly surprised," said Jack O'Lantern. "Is there anything more?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Gipsy. "Some pies."

"Pies!" cried Jack O'Lantern.

"Pies!" cried all the people in High Jinks Land, looking hard at the Pie-man to see if he knew anything about it.

"I shall have to tell you the truth!" said Mrs. Gipsy. "The farmer's wife took your flesh and blood and made it into pumpkin pies. And the farmer's children ate them."

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" cried poor Jack O'Lantern. "I've been murdered!"

"Let's try the Pie-man!" said the Muffin Man who was a bit jealous of him anyway.

"Stuff and nonsense!" said Mrs. Gipsy. "Nonsense and stuff! The Pie-man had nothing to do with it. Besides Mister Jack O'Lantern was not himself until after he was murdered. He doesn't need flesh and blood any more than a popover needs it. The hollower the better!"

"That's so," said Jack O'Lantern in a relieved voice. "Am I going to live happily ever after?"

"Yes, sir!" said Mrs. Gipsy. "Who comes next to have his fortune told?"

RELIGIOUS PAPERS DEFEAT OWN ENDS BY SECTARIANISM

Editor Christian Century
Tells Chicago Preachers That

Chicago, Oct. 26—(AP)—Religious weeklies today are better than ever, but there are times when their partisan sectarianism defeats the ends they have in view, said Paul Hutchinson, publisher of The Christian Century, an undenominational weekly, in an address prepared for delivery to-day before the annual publicity conference of the Chicago Federation of Churches.

Most of the criticisms of ministers against the daily press for alleged failure to report properly religious news are unwarranted, he held, attributing any mistakes to use of special vocabularies which the public at large cannot understand, or to failure on the part of most preachers to know what news is.

On the relation of ministers to all types of journalism, Mr. Hutchinson said:

"Whenever you suggest to the proprietor of a daily newspaper that he make some changes in his product, he almost invariably answers that he would be glad to do so if his readers would let him. He has to give his public what it wants, he tells you, and he generally believes that he is getting out just as good a paper as his readers will allow.

Praise Unexpressed
"The same thing is to a large extent true in religious journalism. Its editors are eager in an excessive degree to respond to the expression of the likes and dislikes of their readers. That being the case, why is it that so many times when the editor of the religious weekly you read does a thing which you think brave or fine, you say 'bravo' to yourself, but nothing outwardly? But when something appears that strikes you wrong you rush for your typewriter and crack out as nasty a note as you can formulate.

"There's another side to this thing. Some of you are nothing more than professional kickers. Nothing has ever been known to be right in your eyes. You growl over almost everything you see in print. And you, as it happens, are the ones who rush most quickly into the editor's mail. You are the ones who make him feel that his livelihood is in danger.

"But I have a notion that there aren't as many of you as you try to make us believe. And I think that if the others—the preachers who are willing to back the brave man, the clean man, the straight shooting man would make it a point to make their presence and support be known, there would come, almost at once, a considerable improvement in the religious journalism of this country."

SEEK RAPID TRANSIT

THE LIMITED MAIL

By ELMER EVANCE
Novel by William Basil Courtney

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros.
"THE LIMITED MAIL" with Monte Blue, is a dramatization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Caroline Dale, who is in love with Bob Wilson, discovers that Jane, who claims to be Bob's wife, is now married to another. Bob had married her, the result of a cottage boy elopement episode, but the marriage was annulled. The Limited Mail and a runaway freight train have been in collision, and Wilson, the Limited's engineer, and little Bobby Fowler have found refuge in the shack of Potts, a tramp whom Wilson had known formerly.

CHAPTER X—Continued

The constant lightning made it easy for him to make out Bob's swinging figure, working down-hill toward the tracks, and Bobby followed as fast as his little legs could move. He began to have some doubts about his ability to overtake Daddy Bob, but he was determined to try.

Bob strode in moody, listless deliberateness toward the Gorge. The Old Witch's nose loomed ominously above him, as it had on that other night of crisis. The Old Witch had been quiet for a long time now, and pronounced safe. It was probably by way of showing her contempt for the plane and the analyses of men, therefore, that she chose in this storm to vent in one grand, final fit of vicious temper the gnawing anger she had known through the years since the trains first began to rumble past in rupturing indifference to her hitherto sublime solitude.

Bob paused on the tracks, feeling an uncanny sensation of live, cold things crawling up and down inside his spine as he heard the great, devastating roar as the whole profile of the Old Witch sloughed away and crashed down into the cut—on the trestle and into the Gorge. For many minutes the avalanche carried on. When its fury had been spent, and subsided to a settling growl, Bob raced forward to see what had happened.

The final death throes of the Old Witch had been a stupendous, catastrophic one, indeed; for the tons of her granite face had smashed away the trestle, and now there was no bridge across the maddened river—nothing, but torn railroads on either side and a black void between.

And even as he stood there, there came to Bob's tense senses, faintly on the gale, the whistle of the Limited. The ill-fated Limited, indeed, dogged by a perversity as remorseless as the one that pursued Bob in his petty human affairs; rushing again to disaster—a disaster more complete and annihilating than any of the others which had threatened or occurred to it.

Bob's heart leaped to the sudden appreciation of an opportunity to pay up for the disaster, the deaths, that had been his fault. He had wrecked the Limited once; he could save it now, though it would probably cost his life—what mattered not at all, and but would save him the trouble.

Without hesitation he scrambled down the massed mumble of avalanche debris to the brink of the river—plunged into its awful current, and swam with all his strength and heart. It was a race not only against a vicious, evil tide but against time. Whirlpools sucked him down, spun him out—jagged boulders bruised him—wind-whipped spray and rain blinded and choked him. But he made the eastern side!

He landed far below the trestle, so there still remained a hard climb back and up to the track level. And, meanwhile, the Limited's whistle sounded near and clear above the elements.

He was thoroughly spent when he reached the tracks, and he collapsed involuntarily; then remained where he was, for a momentary respite, before starting to run down toward the Limited. The searchlight was not yet apparent; he had a brief margin of time.

Then a scream from across the shattered Gorge curdled the heart-blood he was trying to compose. Bob looked, aghast. There on the opposite wound of the trestle, outlined in the lightning, was Bobby. He had lost Bob's trail, except for the knowledge that he had proceeded along the tracks. He had followed the broken edge. And just at that moment, when he had caught sight of Bob in the broken illumination of the lightning, had tripped on the sheet intended for the frightening of Bob. It was his scream in the dire and awful few moments during which he struggled to regain his balance that had attracted Bob.

And even as Bob in horror looked on from the opposite cliff, Bobby's childish efforts to untangle and catch himself came to naught—and he toppled headlong into the raging whirlpools below.

For an instant that seemed like a century Bob was literally too paralyzed to stir hand or foot. His eyes were riveted on a towhead, light against the black waters as it was borne downstream. Then Bob came to life and stepped to the trestle edge to leap into the stream again, after Bobby.

A whistle, long, wailing—carrying its proud demand for the safe passage of trainload of human souls, Bob paused almost in the very act of diving—a hundred or more lives rushing toward their death from behind him; one beloved little soul being swept away to death in front of him.

Which should he save?

He could only save one. Before he could flag the Limited and get back to the river, that little spot of brightness against the dark waters would be gone from his sight forever. Before he could overtake and swim back with Bobby, the Limited and its human freight would have plunged to an all-embracing death. It was the greatest decision in his life; the most terrible dilemma a fevered brain could imagine. Weakly he shrieked a cursed prayer that this Chalice might pass from him. But there was none to take it.

Which should he save?

Somehow he made up his mind; somehow he got his trembling legs into motion and started down the track toward the flying Limited—in body, while his soul went out to die in the rapids with little Bobby. From then on, for many minutes; everything was black.

When next he drew a conscious breath it was to find himself on the ground in the light of the halted Limited, encircled by anxious faces, of which one stood out from all the rest in saintly significance.

"Caroline!"

"Bob—my darling!"

Bob did not know why she should be on her knees beside him, attaining his head against her slender, trembling bosom, kissing him. He did not care why or how—he melted into the incredible miracle of it, and sobbed.

But his sobs of happiness gave way to an agonizing gasp, and he rose with swift unsteadiness to his feet, as he remembered. "Bobby," he choked, to Caroline, "Bobby's gone—into the Gorge. Bobby, my poor, dear little Bobby!"

A cry from some of the trainmen who had gone ahead to examine the full damage of the avalanche—a cry that caused the sympathetic group around Caroline and Bob to part and make way for two brakemen who staggered into the group, carrying Spike Nelson. And tightly clasped in Spike's one arm was Bobby!

STERLING HOPING FOR REVENGE IN TURKEY DAY GAME

Gazette's Scribe Says They Will Win Here on Thanksgiving

Predicting that when Sterling high comes to Dixon for the Big Thanksgiving game they will reverse the tables and get revenge for Dixon's 3 to 2 victory over them at Sterling Saturday, and "that ain't maybe," Heck, football scribe of The Sterling Gazette says of Saturday's game:

Are we downhearted? NO. Anyone who is downhearted or criticizes the wonderful showing of the Blue and Gold fighting machine as it battled on Community Athletic grid Saturday afternoon, in a downpour of rain and a sea of mud, is ungrateful to one of the best fighting teams that this writer has ever seen produced at the Sterling Township high school.

True, Dixon won the game. But look at the score. Three to two is certainly not much to brag about. And this Dixon team that Sterling held to a one point victory is the much touted team that has been stepping hard on its opponents. Given a dry field on Thanksgiving day for the return game at Dixon and the Blue and Gold will reverse things and will come home shouting at the tops of their voices.

It was a tough game to lose. It would have been a tough game for Dixon to lose. It was a clean game as far as sportsmanship is concerned, and the dirtiest game the writer has ever seen as far as mud is concerned. The mud and rain made the cowhide almost impossible to hold; it was remarkable that any one could handle it.

The story of the whole game can be summed up in a few words, both teams repeatedly fumbled the ball but Dixon was almost uncanny in its recovery of both its own and Sterling's fumbles. Dixon men got the ball time and again when had Sterling recovered it, the locals would have won by a wide margin.

Sterling scored its two points on a safety when a Dixon punt was blocked and a Dixon man recovered, but was dropped behind the Dixon line by Morgan. Morgan was almost on the ball when the Dixon man recovered. It would have meant a touchdown had Morgan been the fortunate one in recovering. Dixon scored when Huber missed the elusive bag on a Dixon punt and Dixon again recovered on Sterling's 12 yard line.

Johnson "Punch Drunk" After Round with Wills

Newark, N. J., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Harry Wills today had a quick but indecisive one round heavyweight victory over Floyd Johnson to his credit.

Johnson was an easy victim for the punishing blows of the negro challenger, but appeared to the spectators to be fast from out when a towel fluttered. He was on his feet and had not been knocked down.

After the match a physician representing the state boxing commission examined Johnson and declared he was fit.

"I was punch-drunk," Johnson said. Wills entered the ring weighing 215 pounds, 12 more than his opponent. The negro immediately carried the fight to his opponent, sinking a left to the stomach and then bringing the same hand up to the head.

A right hand wallop to the head then drove Johnson to the ropes. He had his hands up in defense when the towel was flung.

Tied with them in mileage, but nine points behind, were Charles Winter and Paul Croley, New York team.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

USUAL CRY HEARD IN CHICAGO THAT STAGG'S FEARFUL

Thinks Purdue Has a Chance to Beat His Maroons

Chicago, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Football traditions of years furnish the background for four Western Conference teams making ready for Saturday's clashes.

Chicago, mindful of tragic upsets in the past, has revived its annual shibboleth "Stagg fears Purdue" for the Boilermakers, though downed by Wisconsin, may take advantage of the Maroons' mental reaction from the Pennsylvania defeat and hurl the stagmen into the discard in the title race. The Boilermakers' aerial attack and line defense is improving while the Maroon battering ram attack is being wound up to be unleashed against the aspiring Purdue eleven.

Minnesota, pointing for its historic combat with Wisconsin in Minneapolis, is minus Conrad Cooper, regular center, whose leg was injured in the Notre Dame game. Efforts to increase the lancers plunging power are being made on the snow covered field at Camp Randall.

The same lineup that Zuppke sent against Michigan ineffectually may attempt to turn the trick at which Chicago failed, in the Illinois invasion of Pennsylvania. Bad weather last week militates against improvement of the forward passing of "Red" Grange and his aides.

Michigan vs Navy
Michigan is getting into top shape, with Big Tom Edwards, star tackle, recovered from injuries, to entertain the Navy eleven and its accompanying dignitaries at Ann Arbor. Rains have driven the Yost men indoors for practice.

Notre Dame must crowd its practice for Georgia Tech in today and tomorrow, as the Rockne men leave Thursday for Atlanta.

Indiana, grooming for Northwest, has lost Coram, half back injured two weeks ago, for the rest of the season, but Lanman, end hurt in the Syracuse game is back.

Fighting without headgear is henceforth taboo at Northwestern since Captain Lowry and Fritz Bruce suffered scalp cuts while playing tattered Saturday. The Purple is handicapped in practice by a number of casualties left from the Tulane game.

Though Wabash and Wooster are non-conference games of Iowa and Ohio State respectively workouts have not slackened since each has several strong conference games to come.

Too Much Efficiency

By E. J. Rath

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN W. BROOKE, hardware magnate, calls to discuss his bill for services rendered with Mr. Sherwood, president of the Economy and Efficiency Corporation, Limited.

Brooke admires the newly erected contrivance for carrying papers. He admits to Sherwood that the E. & E. has saved him $200,000 a year in the operation of his plant, but seeks to chide the president by suggesting that putting economy into the operation of the Brooke household would be an entirely different matter.

Brooke objects, but admits that he is not married. Brooke taunts him with the remark, "And yet you say you know everything about anything."

Now go on with the story. The president of the E. and E. corporation tilted his chin aggressively and poised a finger under the nose of his caller.

"Running a household is a business, isn't it?" he demanded. "It's not even a recreation," muttered the hardware king. "I imagine, if you run it at all, it's a gift."

"Rot! It's a business! It must be! Everything is a business. Eating is a business; so is sleeping. It's a business when you breathe. It's a business when you talk. Why, thinking is a business!"

Mr. Brooke shook his head wearily. "What's your household investment?" snapped Sherwood suddenly. "Oh, I don't know. A big bunch of money and three children, I guess."

"What are the annual expenses?" "God knows!"

Mr. Sherwood gasped and turned pale. "It's unbelievable!" he exclaimed. "A man runs a household and he doesn't even know what it costs! Rotten business! What does its produce?"

"Worry," "Can you sell that?" "Can't give it away," sighed Mr. Brooke.

"Amazing!" blurted the E. and E. man. "Never dreamed of such a thing in my life. Why, it's criminal! It's an offense against law and order. Who runs this household of yours?"

"Everybody in it. Connie, mostly, and the servants some."

"Who's Connie?" "My daughter Constance."

"And there's no system? No accounting?"

"No system I ever discovered, except handing me the bills and telling me to look pleasant."

"And you've never even tried to get at the cost?"

"Oh, I start adding up the check-stubs once, but I got scared," said Mr. Brooke sheepishly. "I had too many other things to think about."

The E. and E. president leaned back in his chair and regarded his caller with pity.

"Worst case I ever heard of," he commented with a shake of his head. "Fierce! What do you propose to do about it?"

"I wasn't figuring to do anything about it. What can I?"

"Everything. You can't go on forever this way. Why, it'll ruin your character if it doesn't bust your bank account. You've simply got to stop it."

Mr. Brooke made a helpless gesture and recorded a mental note of regret that he had introduced the subject.

"Well, I haven't time to bother about it now. I've got to go away on a trip. Although it does worry me about leaving the youngsters. I'm a widower, you see. Connie is supposed to be the boss home, but—well, it all comes pretty high. I suppose I'll have to stand it."

President Sherwood glared indignantly. "Stand nothing!" he declared. "When are you going away?"

"I'd get away this afternoon if I could. It's a sudden trip."

"For how long?" "Haven't figured exactly. I can tell you in a few minutes."

"Never mind now. We'll get to that later. Do you want this household of yours managed while you're away?"

Mr. Brooke looked doubtful. "And reformed?"

The man who financed the household was curious. "Reorganized, put on its feet, wastage eliminated, economies effected, efficiency installed, time saved, success assured," Mr. Sherwood rattled it off briskly like a candidate with one speech.

The hardware man was obviously interested and not a little startled. He wrinkled his forehead into vertical folds between the eyes and devoted a few seconds to thought.

"But if you never ran a household," he ventured, "how—"

"I never ran a lead-pencil factory until I saved two-fifths of a cent a gross," interrupted Mr. Sherwood sharply. "I never ran a hardware business until I saved over two hundred thousand dollars a year. Man, I can run anything!"

Mr. Brooke's eyes betrayed skepticism. "Anything?" repeated Mr. Sherwood belligerently. "Anything from the war in Europe to shoveling snow. I could run the government if they'd let me."

"A brownstone front and three children are different from those things," commented Mr. Brooke.

"But the eternal principles of economy and efficiency are immutable," declared Mr. Sherwood, pounding his desk. "They can be applied to anything. This corporation employs experts in every line. We've got a man who can teach a hen how to save time and money laying an egg."

"I see we are going to do business," interrupted Mr. Sherwood. "Oh, I didn't say so. But I was just thinking—"

"We'll get this on paper at once," said the E. and E. president. He pushed three buttons on the edge of his desk. One operated a silent signal in front of the stenographer with the dark hair and pink cheeks.

She rose quietly and approached with book in hand. The second button caused the immediate appearance of a clerk carrying a set of legal papers. The third button actuated the electric office-boy, who shot noiselessly into the room and came to a stop at Mr. Sherwood's elbow.

Mr. Brooke viewed the swift mobilization of forces with a feeling that he was about to take one of the momentous steps of life.

me. This company never fails. It can't, because it simply applies right principles in the right way. What we do is really very simple—when you know how."

"While I wouldn't expect too much," said the hardware man slowly, "it would be a great comfort for me to know, seeing that I'm going away, that things would be in charge of somebody who—"

"I see we are going to do business," interrupted Mr. Sherwood. "Oh, I didn't say so. But I was just thinking—" er business. THAT any business that cuts prices below cost is just cutting its own throat.

FARM IMPLEMENT BUSINESS SHOWS GOOD GROWTH

Is Not Back to Pre-War Levels, However, Report

Chicago, Oct. 26 (AP)—Comparing 1925 farm equipment business with 1924, 1923, 1922 and 1921, "it is excellent" the Research Department of the National Association of the Farm Equipment Manufacturers, says in releasing its third quarterly review for 1925.

"But compared with pre-war standards it is only normal, the advances in some lines being offset by less business in others," it continues. "Hence, when the rosy appearance of the gains made this year and prospects for 1926 are viewed, they should be given their proper relationship to the entire picture. The farm is still behind on replacing worn out and out of date equipment that represents his shortage in such equipment, purchases for 1921, 22, 23 and 24.

"The outstanding features of 1925 farm equipment business are viewed by members of the national association big and little, touching all branches of farming, are increased cash purchases, the buying of bigger and faster operating equipment to multiply one man's production because of high farm labor and dwindling horse power and a disappearance of opposition to the farm tractor from the farmers themselves."

Correct weight can be yours be shapely!

"I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure."
Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?
And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?
Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red coils in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what's the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build "red blood-cells" by the millions.
You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system.
It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood. S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

REPEAL OF TAXES ON AUTOMOBILES ASKED BY AGENTS

House Committee Monday Heard Representatives of Trade

Washington, Oct. 26—(AP)—The drive against automobile taxes was renewed today before the House ways and means committee as it started its second and final week of public hearings on revision of the revenue law.
Automobile representatives seeking repeal of the five percent levy on passenger cars were followed in the committee's allotment of time today by representatives of many other fields of business and manufacturers who sought relief from the special levies now applying against them.
End Hearing This Week.
With the conclusion of the hearings this week, Chairman Green will call the committee into executive session to commence work immediately upon the drafting of a tax reduction bill.

C. E. Gambrell, of Chicago, speaking for the National Automobile Dealers Association, told the commission today that collection of federal taxes on automobiles cost each dealer an average of $300 annually, and that the total cost to dealers had been $40,000,000 since the tax first was levied. He asked repeal of all taxes on automobile and accessories.
Repeal of the occupational tax on taxicabs, of the five percent levy on passenger cars and of the tax on parts, was urged by the National Association of Taxicab Owners. The occupational levy was described by W. W. Cloud of Baltimore as discriminatory. He held that taxicabs are a necessary part of transportation.
Drivers Ask Repeal.
C. E. Barrett of Chicago, appearing for the American Drivers Association, also asked repeal of these three taxes.
"There is no more reason for taxing an occupation such as operation of motor buses and taxicabs," he said, "than of taxing a railroad train or street car."
The witness estimated that the occupational tax yields $1,856,000 annually.

The fathers of more than 11 percent of the persons listed in Who's Who were clergymen.

Speedy the Spender who left a trail of Ice Cream Cones
Harold Lloyd
The Freshman

College Days Were a College "Daze" for Harold!

—His name was Lamb, but they made him the goat of the college! He thought himself "The Berries." So did they—"Razzberries!"
Then the Big Game!
Gales of Laughter!
There is more than laughter in "The Freshman"! There are roars of joy! and screams of delight! And speed and suspense to make you shout with excitement! —And a tear or two—the kind that makes you happy. IT'S THE BRIGHTEST TWINKLE OF THE BIG SCREEN STAR, THE BEST HE HAS EVER MADE.
